AFTER PRESIDENT DODD.

Indignation Meeting of Depositors or the Newark Savings Bank.

Which, to Say the Least, Was a Moss Tumnituous Affair—Bank Director Cried Down-An Investigation Ordered.

New York, May 23.—The depositors of the defunct Newark Savings Institution met in the Academy of Music to-night. There was wild confusion and frequent threats of lynching President Dodd. Nearly 1,000 persons representing $1,500,000 in deposits responded to the call. Most were workmen in their shirt sleeves with coats upon

Alexander Volheye called the meeting to order. He cautioned the depositors to act calmly, yet to insist that their rights be accorded them. It was resolved to have two chairmen, one to speak English and the other German. Phillip Roth, a German, and ex-Alderman Lyon, an American, were

"Why don't you propose Dodd?" some one cried.

"WHERE IS THE OLD THIEF?" "String him up!" were shouts that filled

Noth chairmen rapped for order, but it was several minutes before the tumult subsided. When there was a semblance of order Charles F. Bircheling, a lawyer representing a large number of widows and orphons and a deposit for himself, made an impassioned appeal. He arraigned the officials, saying that it was suspicious that no statement had been made.

"Only such bits of information," he continued, "have been given out as would appease you. We must have a statement

LOOK AT THE WIDOWS AND ORPHANS Up there!" he cried, pointing to the gallery where a number of women in mourning could be seen leaning over the rail. "I am determined to see that justice is meted out to the letter and not as it was in 1879, when you were glad to get seventy-five cents on a dollar and think you were doing well." [Cries of "We won't!" "We won't!" "Hang the rascals!" "Get a rope!"]

The President looked on calmly until one of the depositors got upon a chair, and swinging his arms about, called: "Hanging is too good for them. but don't talk about it. Let us look to our money, and if we don't get it

"WE'LL BUY A ROPE!"

The remark caused the room to become quiet, but in an instant the trouble broke address, and had to be suppressed by for e. several of his friends pulling him down into his seat

Edward Black, a lawyer, informed the depositors the Vice Chancellor had told him that dollar for dollar would be paid, and that Fitch & Hatch had given their promise to settle honorably. This had the effect of quieting the crowd, but when Director Fraenzel ascended the platform with a paper in his hand and demanded to be heard, they cried again,

"FIRE HIM OUT!"

The director folded his hands and awaited developments. Finally he raised both hands and in a tumultuous voice demanded to be heard.

"Upon my honor, gentlemen." he pleaded. "I was at the bank at 5 o'clock to-day, and the report on this paper is as true as I am standing before you. Only listen to me. I have a transcript of the affairs of the bank as the books showed on May 15. 1 have them from the book-keeper, copied before my eyes."

RIS VOICE WAS DROWNED

And several of the more excited made threatening gestures, so he stepped down to avoid violence.

Confusion now reigned supreme and the shouts filled the halj. Ex-Alderman Lyon took up the statement and attempted to read it, but was hissed down. Order was restored by offering a motion appointing a committee of ten to investigate the bank's affairs, which was carried with three cheers, the Germans reserving the right to have seven of their own number on the committee. Speeches were now made on every side and the meeting adjourned in great disorder.

THE STATEMENT

Which was not read showed the good assets of the bank to be $4,125,867; in the hands of Fisk & Hatch $ -,146,000, and due to depositors $6,156,534.

President Dodd to-day declined to be reele ted a member of the standing committce of the Northern New Jersey Episcopal Convention pending the investigation into his financial transactions.

Vote in the Peelle-English Contested

Election Case Reversed. WASHINGTON, May 23.-In the House, on motion of Mr. Dibrell (Tenn.), the Agricultural Appropriation Bill, with the Senate amendments, was referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

The Speaker laid before the House a letter from the Secretary of the Navy recommending the building of a war vessel according to the plan of Captain Erickson. Referred to the Naval Committee.

The House then proceeded to vote on a motion to lay on the table the motion made by Mr. Springer to reconsider the vote declaring Peelle, of Indiana, entitled to his seat now held in the House: Yeas 182, nays 132. So the motion was lost.

Thirty-one delegates voted in the affirmative. Vote was then taken on Mr. Spring- addresses.

er's motion to reconsider the original reso-lution. On the question of reconsideration Mr. Weller (Iowa), who had voted to table the motion offered by Mr. Springer, re-frained from voting, and Mr. Patton (Penn.) and Mr. Warner (Ohio), who had not voted on the former vote, voted aye.

The result was yeas 133 to mays 130. So the vote was reconsidered. Mr. Brown (Ind.) then moved to recommit the resolution with instructions to have a recount of the votes cast at the election; lost—yeas 124, nays 134, several democrats changing their votes on this call votes on this call.

Mr. Howe (Mich.) rose to a question of order and called attention to the rule preventing ex-members of Congress from enjoying the privilege of the floor unless a signed paper declaring they were not interested in any pending measure. He had been informed by a Democratic member that W. H. English, the father of the contestant had been on the floor for days, urging members to vote for his son. If such a course is pursued it ought not to go unnoticed by the House. Messrs. Randall, Blount (Ga.), Springer and Cox (N. Y.) defended Mr. English. The vote was then taken on the minority rule adopted yesterday, and the vote reconsidered this morning, and the resolution re-jected—yeas 128, nays 129. The vote next taken was on the majority resolution declaring English entitled to a seat. Adopted—yeas 130, nays 127. English was then escorted to his desk by Mr. Converse, and the oath of office was administered.

A USURER

Who Falled to Possess the Farm of the Late Salmon P. Chase. CINCINNATI, May 23. - The suit of Janet R. C. Hoot, daughter of Salmon P. Chase, and her husband, W. R. Hoyt, against Fred. C. Schwartz and W. Boone, the notorious usurers and tax title sharks of this city, to recover a farm in Symmes town-ship, which Boone purchased for forfeited taxes, and also to recover money alleged to have been illegally paid Boone thereon, came up before Judge Peck. Mrs. Hoyt claims that the property was her father's, and was conveyed to her by her sister, Kate Chase Sprague. That she had paid Boone's lawyer, W. Brower, $119.70 to redeem the property, but that afterward Boone had the property conveyed to his clerk, Fred. C. Schwartz, to extort further money from her, and that the deeds to Boone's agent are invalid for several reasons. Boone admits that the property belongs to Mrs. Hoyt, and that the deeds are invalid, but claims that $134 14 is still due him on the title. Judge Peck yesterday decided in favor of Mrs. Hoyt. Judgment was also given Boone against Mrs. Hoyt for $1:4.1; which he had paid for taxes on the land. Boone claims that Brower embezzled the $110 70 which he and I have no fears as to the result." collected from Mrs, Hoyt, as well as other sums, and threatens to prosecute him.

THE CASE OF ST. LEONARDS. LONDON, May 23,-The other side of the story regarding Lord St. Leonards' assault on his host's maid-servant was told to-day to a correspondent by Mr. Waiter Sugden, the eldest living brother of the imprisoned Baron. Mr. Walter Sugden is 20 years old. and was married four years ago to a daughter of Lord Hawarden. He is a reputable member of seciety and his domestic relations have always been clear from any such scandals as have besmirched the record of his rakish elder brother. He loyally champions the head of the family, however, and said to a correspondent to-day: "You see the Grand Jury has refused to indict my brother for rape, and has brought in a bill for the milder offense of indecent assault."

"Will Lord St. Leonards be able to make a successful defense against this charge." "Yes; his defense is perfect. This girl, Emma Cole, is a bad lot, and the arrest of my brother on such a charge and the refusal to admit him to bail were infamous outrages, and let me tell you that after his acquittal my brother will prosecute every one concerned in bringing this charge against him for conspiracy and perjury.

"How is he treated in Brentford jail?" "He is as well treated as any one could be in such a place. He is allowed to provide his own meals and to have all the newspapers and other comforts that be desires at his own expense." "Is it true that he has pleaded his privilege as a Peer and demanded a trial at the bar of the House of Lords!"

"No. It is true that this course was suggested, but the general opinion of his counsel was averse to the proposition, and it was dropped. All the arrangements for his defense have now been left in my hands

A Lynching Rehashed. DENVER, Colo., May 23.-The following re the details of the lynching of William Maloney near Seville, Wyoming, by a mob of masked men: Maloney had a dispute with a man named George Metcalf. Without any provocation he shot Metcalf, kill-ing him instantly. A number of men started from the scene of the shooting for Cheyenne, with the body of Metcaff, and also having Maloney in custody. The party bound for Cheyenne had not proceeded far when in the gathering darkness a number of masked men appeared. The men having Maloney in charge knew that resistance would be useless, so they gave up Maloney, but not before the masked men had covered those in the wagon with rifles. The vigilants commanded strict obedience and silence. Then, so quietly that their operations could not be heard 100 feet away, they hanged Maloney to a tree. After the murderer had met his doom the visilants ordered the men in the wagon to proceed on their journey. There is great excitement in the vicinity of the murder and lynching.

AWFUL FATE.

Father, Mother and Daughter Burned to Ashes.

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 23. - About 2 this morning fire was discovered issuing from the two-story frame house in Munn's Run, a suburb of Portsmouth, occupied by Samuel Ocheman, whose family consisted of himself, wife and five children, the oidest a girl of 17. The younger children were asleep, and were awakened and escaped. In their efforts to save the furniture, however, the old people and eldest daughter were caught by the falling rafters, and before aid could reach them all three were burnt to cinders. The fire department reached the spot too late to be of service. The Ochemans were poor, but industrious, quiet, well-conducted people, and much sympathy is felt for the little children so suddenly and agonizingly dereft of parents and protector. The house was a secluded spot, which will account for the delay in rendering assistance.
